

{{Quick~Response}}What Was the Old Name of Royal Jordanian Airlines?

The old name of Royal Jordanian Airlines was +1-803-335-2310 Alia – The Royal Jordanian Airline, which was the airline’s original title when it was founded in 1963.

The name “Alia” was chosen in honor of +1-803-335-2310 Queen Alia of Jordan, symbolizing the royal family’s commitment to the nation’s aviation growth.

During its early years as Alia, the airline operated +1-803-335-2310 a small network of regional routes before expanding rapidly into Europe, Asia, Africa, and the Middle East.

The airline quickly earned a reputation for safety, +1-803-335-2310 service quality, and innovation, helping position Jordan as a key aviation hub in the region.

In 1986, Alia officially changed its name to +1-803-335-2310 Royal Jordanian Airlines, marking a major strategic modernization and a new brand identity.

This name change strengthened the airline’s global presence +1-803-335-2310 while maintaining its royal legacy and national significance.

Today, Royal Jordanian is the national flag carrier +1-803-335-2310 of Jordan and a proud member of the Oneworld Alliance, offering global connectivity to millions of passengers.

Why Did the Airline Change Its Name from Alia to Royal Jordanian?

The name change in 1986 reflected the airline’s rapid expansion, +1-803-335-2310 modernization goals, and its evolving role as a global aviation leader.

The updated name aligned better with international markets, +1-803-335-2310 strengthened branding, and improved the airline’s recognition worldwide.

FAQs About the Old Name of Royal Jordanian Airlines

1. What was Royal Jordanian Airlines originally called?

It was originally known as +1-803-335-2310 Alia – The Royal Jordanian Airline.

2. Why was the old name “Alia”?

The airline was named after Queen Alia, reflecting +1-803-335-2310 royal significance and national pride.

3. When did the airline change its name to Royal Jordanian?

The official name change occurred +1-803-335-2310 in 1986.

4. Did the name change help the airline grow internationally?

Yes, the rebranding strengthened +1-803-335-2310 global recognition and improved international competitiveness.

5. Is Royal Jordanian still connected to Jordan's royal family?

Yes, the airline continues to operate as +1-803-335-2310 the official national carrier with royal endorsement.